5. If he/she shows signs of upper respiratory infection (cold symptoms) serious enough to interfere with his/her ability to participate in the program, or if he/she displays cold symptoms that cannot be contained (e.g., sneezing, runny noses, etc.) or presents as such that the spread of his/her infection to other participants and/or staff cannot be prevented.

By initialing on the bottom of this page, I authorize the Rec Center at Giant Steps to take my participant on regularly scheduled community outings (i.e., library, community parks, theater, grocery stores, etc.) via walking, Giant Steps' minivan, Giant Steps' 15 passenger van, or school bus. PHYSICAL MANAGEMENT AND SECLUSION

Giant Steps bears the responsibility of protecting the safety, health, and welfare of the students, staff, and property of the organization as well as maintaining a safe learning environment. Therefore, it may be necessary at times to physically manage or remove a student into an isolated area when the student's conduct affects the well-being of the school. The criteria for use of seclusion/isolated time out and/or physical management is a student/participant displaying continuous physical aggression, continuous self-injury and/or continuous high magnitude disruption. Such techniques are used to the extent that is necessary to preserve a safe learning environment and to preserve the safety of the students, staff, and/or others in the environment. Neither seclusion/isolated time out nor physical management procedures shall be used as a form of punishment.

Giant Steps utilizes the Professional Crisis Management (PCM) system to proactively and reactively manage student behavior. PCM utilizes strategies based on scientifically verified principles, addresses a wide range of behaviors, and limits its application to individuals with special needs. PCM provides staff with a continuum of physical procedures and techniques that can be used to intervene in a crisis situation. All of the procedures have been designed to maintain human dignity and to avoid awkward positioning and physical pain. The crisis prevention component of PCM teaches a variety of nonphysical and verbal strategies for the prevention of crisis situations. Based on a teaching and learning model, it integrates smoothly and complements the intervention strategies currently utilized at Giant Steps.

If the physical component of PCM is used to maintain safety, a PCM documentation form is completed and the incident is kept on record. Parents are notified by a phone call or note from the classroom teacher or therapist involved in the incident requiring PCM. Additional data pertaining to the incident may be kept in the classroom data binder. Patterns in behavior are examined and proactive behavior management strategies are consistently implemented throughout each classroom and therapy session. Some examples of proactive strategies commonly used at Giant Steps include programming and treatment modifications, reward systems, sensory diets, limit setting, environmental changes, etc.

Giant Steps staff are not permitted to lift students/participants from a lying or seated position on the ground into a standing position (with the only exception being in a situation of imminent danger) in order to maintain safety for staff and students, as well as to maintain the integrity of the use of physical management by using it during crisis situations only.

SUNSCREEN/BUG REPELLENT

Weather permitting, participants are exposed to a variety of settings (e.g., Giant Steps' playground, parks, walks, community outings, etc.) that pose the potential for prolonged exposure to the sun and insects. Parents/guardians have the option to provide sunscreen and/or bug repellent that Rec Center staff can apply given a participant-specific, labeled bottle.

By initialing on the bottom of this page, I give permission for my participant to be photographed and/or videotaped at Giant Steps for promotional use. Photos/videos will be used either onsite or offsite for professional development, educational programming and/or training purposes, and promotional purposes for Giant Steps or the Rec Center at Giant Steps.
